Message From The Founder

The world is facing a health crisis of its very own making. Cardiovascular diseases take more lives than any other malady, and the World Health Organization (WHO) contends that at least 80% of untimely deaths from cardiovascular events could be prevented if people ate a healthy diet, exercised and moved regularly, and avoided unhealthy addictions, such as the use of tobacco. These factors also drive the rising rates of type II diabetes, which claims the health of 10% of the world's adult population, and could be easily avoided altogether if wellness took precedence in people's lives.

That's where you come in. As a Primal Health Coach, you'll transform lives through the scientifically validated nutrition, fitness, and lifestyle principles of the ancestral health movement. I've devoted my life to health and wellness, and throughout my time as a professional endurance athlete (and as a recovering endurance athlete!) I've experimented with many different nutritional philosophies and programs. My research led me to primal living, and it was only by following evolutionary health science that I was able to cure my chronic conditions. I was hooked on ancestral health, and knew I'd uncovered the key to healing not just my health, but also the health of the world.

I can't do it alone, and need dedicated health professionals to help me spread the knowledge so we can reset those alarming statistics. Longevity is within everyone's grasp, so let's help people improve the quality of their lives, lengthen their lifespans, and relish in the happiness that comes with healthy living.

As you read through the overview of this program, I invite you to imagine your life as a Primal Health Coach. If you're passionate about the principles covered, the career that's waiting, and the impact you'll have on the lives of others, then I encourage you to join our team of exclusive experts. Thank you for taking the time to learn more about our mission, and for your dedication to the wellness of the world.

What You'll Learn

No other health coaching school arms you with such in-depth, comprehensive ancestral health knowledge AND offers so much support, practical business-building skills, and a wide array of tools and materials to enable a speedy and successful launch of your thriving health coaching business. We are here to guide you every step of the way.

Chapter 1: Yes, You Really Can Reprogram Your Genes!

We can reprogram the genes that impact health and longevity by altering lifestyle habits to more closely resemble those of our hunter-gatherer ancestors. Genes can be viewed as “on/off” switches because they continually direct the production of protein molecules that influence every element of body structure and function. We explore in depth how to turn on the genes that direct optimal health, and turn off the genes that instigate disease, with signals provided by the foods we eat, the type of exercise we do (or don't do), our sleep habits, sun exposure, and much more. In this lesson, you'll learn all about:

- The function of genes, and how they are constantly working to repair, regenerate, or destroy your cells based on the environmental signals they are receiving.
- The distinction between the basic set of Homo sapiens genes that we all share, and the particulars of one's familial genes that create individual differences among humans.
- The mechanisms behind gene expression: transcription, translation, and everything in between.
- How to manipulate gene expression through foods, workouts, and lifestyle behaviors.

Chapter 2: The Clues to Optimal Gene Expression Are Found in Evolution

Two and a half million years of selection pressure and harsh environmental circumstances created the perfect genetic recipe for human health and longevity. Our genes expect us to be lean, fit, and healthy by adapting the lifestyle behaviors and diets of our primal ancestors into the realities of comfortable, high-tech modern life. Together, we explore a comprehensive view of the human timeline of evolution, including the spread of the human population and the advent of civilization and its impact on gene expression. We cover how the lack of selection pressure since the advent of civilization has halted human evolution, and explain the continued increases in genetic diversity, as we look to our hunter-gatherer ancestors for guidance. In this lesson, you'll learn all about:

- The 10 Primal Blueprint laws that drove human evolution.
- The advent of civilization and modern living's severe cost to human health.
- The fitness and nutrition choices of primal humans, and how we can mimic certain aspects of their lifestyle to enhance gene expression.
- The truth about human lifespan from precivilization to now.

Chapter 3: Your Body Prefers Burning Fat Over Carbohydrates

Humans have been hardwired through environmental selection pressure to prefer fat as their primary fuel source from both storage and dietary sources. In contrast, the modern high-carbohydrate, grain-based diet has created a dependency on external carbohydrates for energy at the expense of efficient fat metabolism, while stimulating chronically excessive insulin production. A high-carb, high insulin-producing diet is proinflammatory, immune suppressing, and hormone balance disrupting, which increases the risk of assorted health problems and serious disease. In this lesson, we'll show you how to:

- Reprogram your genes to become efficient at fat and ketone burning.
- Minimize the breakdown of lean muscle tissue into glucose for quick energy.
- Improve caloric efficiency, the ability to survive and thrive on fewer ingested calories.
- Avoid unhealthy fats and choose healthy fats for metabolism activation.
- Take advantage of the sweet spot for carbohydrate consumption.

Chapter 4: 80% of Your Body Composition Is Determined by How You Eat

Excess insulin production from a high-carbohydrate diet is believed to be the worst health problem in modern life; it drives fat storage and systemic inflammation and interferes with healthy immune and hormonal function. A low insulin-producing diet, on the other hand, promotes the use of stored or ingested fat as the primary source of fuel. We also reveal the truth about exercise and how it relates to weight management, and give you the lowdown on the compensation theory, which suggests that the burning of calories through vigorous exercise actually triggers an increase in appetite, a decline in metabolic rate, and an increased propensity to store fat in the aftermath of a workout. In this lesson, you'll gain knowledge on:

- The role of insulin and how to effectively regulate insulin production for optimal gene expression.
- Insulin resistance, and how it keeps the body locked in a chronic fat-storage pattern.
- How skinny doesn't necessarily mean healthy, and how a high insulin-producing diet may be drastically affecting health.
- How to reverse insulin resistance and other disease risk factors in as little as 21 days.
- Why what you eat determines 80% of success with body composition goals.

Chapter 5: Grains Are Totally Unnecessary

Here's the truth about grains: they have minimal nutritional value, stimulate excess insulin production, and contain “antinutrients” that compromise digestive and immune function, promote systemic inflammation, and inhibit the absorption of vitamins and minerals. In this lesson, we cover:

- The facts about refined grains as well as whole grains, busting apart conventional wisdom in the process.
- What you and your clients need to know about legumes.
- How whole grains and other complex carbs burn slower than sugars, but still make an identical contribution gram-to-gram to one's total insulin production over time.
- How lectins, gluten, and phytates compromise nutrition and health.
- How today's harvesting methods and genetically modified wheat crops can cause digestive disturbances and trigger chronic conditions.

Chapter 6: Fat and Cholesterol Are Not Your Enemy

Conventional wisdom got it wrong: cholesterol and saturated fat aren't the true causes of today's heart disease epidemic. The real culprits are oxidation and inflammation in the bloodstream, a state that is caused by poor dietary and lifestyle habits. Saturated fat is actually an excellent source of energy and supports healthy cellular function—our cell membranes are comprised mainly of saturated fat and many hormonal and metabolic processes utilize saturated fat. We detail the dietary pattern that instigates the heart disease process and cover everything you need to know about good and bad cholesterol, and its role in cardiovascular complications. In this lesson, you'll learn all about:

- Saturated fat and its part in human evolution.
- Triglycerides, LDL and HDL cholesterol, and their relationship to heart disease.
- Statins, and how they have minimal impact on the most important heart disease risk factors, and have numerous problematic side effects.
- The true catalysts for heart disease, oxidation and inflammation.

Chapter 7: Exercise Is Ineffective for Weight Management

Here we expose the myth of exercise as imperative to weight loss/management. While the calories in-calories out equation is literally true, the variables of appetite, energy level, and hormone function make this equation an incidental component of the weight management challenge, rather than the end-all. We show you how to utilize general everyday low-level movement to promote optimal health, immune function, fat metabolism, and brain function...and how to take advantage of brief, high-intensity strength and sprint workouts for enhanced organ function, optimized body composition, elevated mood and cognitive function, and total body, functional fitness. In this lesson, we reveal:

- Why exercise doesn't support weight management.
- The greatest benefits of exercise: the movement of muscles and joints and the optimization of adaptive hormones.
- The body's specific genetic requirements for comfortably paced exercise to move closer toward optimal health, fat metabolism, and protection against common sedentary-related health problems.
- The dangers of chronic cardio, and how to break out of this deleterious pattern.
- The maximum heart rate to achieve optimal aerobic benefits without triggering the fight-or-flight response.
- The true relationship between body composition and metabolic rate, and the biggest benefits of building lean muscle mass.

Chapter 8: Maximum Fitness Gains Can Be Made in Minimal Time with High-Intensity Workouts

The body must engage in maximum effort exercise in order to stay strong, healthy, and resilient against chronological aging and to withstand and recover from unforeseen trauma and illness. High-intensity, short-duration workouts stimulate the release of adaptive hormones in the bloodstream, which help boost energy and delay the aging process by optimizing the function of all organs and systems in the body. Even basic efforts to integrate some high-intensity strength workouts and sprints into an exercise routine can positively impact body composition, energy levels, mood, and longevity. In this lesson, we cover:

- The scientifically proven health benefits of brief, high-intensity workouts, and how and when to apply them.
- The preferred types of strength exercises: functional, full-body movements that activate large muscle groups.
- How to correctly taper exercise volume and intensity to actually improve peak competitive performance.
- How to pair intense exercise with fasting to prolong the benefits of adaptive hormones in the bloodstream and to accelerate fat burning for those interested in reducing body fat.
- The cause of delayed onset muscle soreness (DOMS) and how to best heal.
- Carbohydrate consumption for devoted high-intensity exercisers.
- The effects of high-intensity exercise on mitochondrial biogenesis, which helps to synthesize hormones, metabolize fat, and optimize glucose, insulin, and calcium levels in the cells.

Chapter 9: Eliminate SAD Foods

SAD stands for “Standard American Diet,” which is rife with foods that trigger a high-insulin response and thwart health and weight goals. Some SAD foods speak for themselves, such as junk food and fast food, while others play such a prominent role in the diets of Westerners that they are more difficult to spot and eliminate. We’ll teach you how to identify the SAD foods that compromise health so you can conduct a pantry and refrigerator purge with your clients. In this lesson, we pinpoint:

- The three most offensive and over-emphasized elements of the Standard American Diet.
- Polyunsaturated fats and chemically altered partially hydrogenated fats and trans fats and how they are inextricably linked to chronic disease.
- The foods to avoid in the following categories: grains, baking ingredients, beverages, condiments, dairy products, fast food, fats and oils, fish and seafood, legumes, meat, potatoes, processed foods, sweets.

Chapter 10: Shop, Cook, and Dine Primally

We don’t want to leave you or your clients hungry, so in this lesson we show you where to shop for budget-friendly, primal-approved foods. Alternative grocers, farmers’ markets, coops, ethnic markets, and Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) are stocked with the highest quality, most nutritious foods. In this lesson, we teach you how to:

- Maneuver through mainstream markets to make sure you’re avoiding SAD foods and taking advantage of primal-approved offerings.
- Establish relationships with local farmers that can benefit both you and your clients.
- Steer you toward ethnic markets, which feature a vast array of innovative meat options and exotic herbs and spices.

- Cook with products that can withstand high temperatures, such as butter, ghee, and coconut oil.
- Listen to your body and learn its signals of hunger and satiation.
- Make the most of dining out.

Chapter 11: Understand the Spectrum of Best to Worst Food Choices

To “forage” in the traditional sense means to “search for and secure food.” These days foraging is all about discernment—moving away from instant availability and industrial processing, and moving toward quality and nutrient-dense foods. You’ll learn all about how becoming a fat-burning beast will likely reduce the amount of calories needed to sustain energy, which in turn promotes enhanced cellular repair and longevity. In this lesson, we discuss:

- How to eat primally without breaking the bank.
- How to honor the 80% rule and eat at the highest end of the spectrum of food choices whenever possible, without stressing or obsessing about perfection.
- Your primal-approved options, and how to take advantage of local and in-season fare.
- The importance of choosing local pasture-raised or USDA-certified organic meat and poultry.
- What you need to know about wild-caught fish and farmed fish, and the best options for each.
- Sensible sweets that will up your antioxidant intake without raising your carbohydrate load.

Chapter 12: Exercise Primally: Move, Lift, and Sprint!

Primal Blueprint fitness mimics the physical activity of our ancestors with a combination of functional full-body strength training efforts and regular bouts of all-out sprints. At its core are three basic laws: move frequently at a slow pace, lift heavy objects regularly, and perform occasional all-out sprint workouts. We show you how to move clients away from a conventional training program focused on regimented, physically exhaustive workouts and toward a sensible primal exercise routine manageable for (and enjoyed by!) all levels and body types. In this lesson, you’ll learn:

- How the lifestyle of our ancestors determined the body’s fitness preferences.
- Why moving frequently at a slow pace is so important, and how to best add low-level aerobic activity into daily and weekly routines.
- Suggestions for brief, high-intensity strength training sessions.
- The Primal Essential Movements (PEMs)—pushups, pull-ups, squats, and planks—for a highly functional, high intensity, total body workout that is simple to learn and safe to perform.
- The importance of brief, all-out sprints, and how (and how often) to perform them, including proper warm-up and form.

Chapter 13: Slow Life Down

Sleep, sunlight, play, and creative intellectual outlets, along with diet and exercise, helped perfect the DNA recipe for a healthy, vibrant human being. Our hunter-gatherer genes crave a reconnection to the natural environs from which we evolved. Unfortunately, we've created an artificial microcosm of glaring lights, computers, digital gadgets, text messages, emails, Tweets, and Facebook updates that rule our days and overstimulate our nights, overriding the powerful circadian rhythm that governs sleep, hunger, wakefulness, and the hormones that support health and wellbeing. Here, we reveal why it's imperative to reconnect with our original bearings in nature and restore the social orientations that are so critical to our human identity and wellness. In this lesson, you'll learn:

- How to enhance your appreciation of food by eating meals with full awareness, at a comfortable pace, and in a calm, relaxing environment.
- The impact of social networking and the importance of establishing and maintaining authentic interpersonal relationships.
- How to reset your circadian rhythm and optimize sound sleep.
- Why “adrenalin-rush” type adventures are necessary, and how engaging in the occasional thrill energizes and refreshes.
- Ideas for connecting with nature, because our genes still expect age-old, nature-based inputs.
- The significance of sunlight, and how to obtain optimal levels of vitamin D.
- How to tame our addiction to a hectic daily pace and multitasking behaviors, which undermine personal relationships and individual fulfillment.

Chapter 14: Coaching Foundations

Master Coach Christine Hassler strengthens the foundation of your coaching practice by helping you connect with your personal passion for health coaching. Through four interactive videos, Christine helps you turn the volume down on your inner critic and then walks you through how you can help clients do the same. She also covers business building and branding tips. In this lesson, you'll empower your practice with the following strategies:

- Helping clients identify their 3 majors: where they are now, where they'd like to be, and what's blocking them.
- Putting achievable milestones in place so clients can successfully reach their goals.
- Reframing language, so both coach and client operate from a place of vision and values.
- The difference between coaching and therapy.
- Dealing with limiting beliefs and providing tools to help overcome them.

- Discovering your secret sauce, getting clear on your mission, and building your brand.

Chapter 15: Coaching Strategies and Tools

Master Coach Christine Hassler teaches you the art of active listening, so you can create space for honesty, openness, and trust with clients. Engaging with clients involves mastering skills such as sitting with silence, making eye contact, listening with non-judgment, and asking the right questions, the right way. She covers it all, along with how to use your clients' (and your own) stories to help push them further towards their goals. Christine also covers a topic that is typically left out in coaching trainings—intuition, and how, when combined with intellect, it's an incredibly useful tool when it comes to building a business and working with clients. In this series of videos, Christine covers:

- The advantages and how-tos of active listening.
- How to use perception checking to build trust, create insight, and secure commitments from clients.
- The importance of allowing for spaces of silence.
- How to stay out of judgment and resist the tendency to “fix” your clients.
- How to cultivate authentic, supportive energy using compassion and curiosity.
- The importance of “I” language to goal setting.

- The best ways to ask questions and encourage insight.
- The correct use of praise and acknowledgment.
- How to set up ongoing communication outside of sessions, while establishing clear boundaries.

Chapter 16: Sales Strategies and Tools

Master Coach Christine Hassler makes sales not so scary in this series of strategy videos. Whether you're a sales maestro, or sales typically has you running for the hills, you'll learn how to surpass any roadblocks and sell like a pro from a space of service. She'll help you create your avatar client and shape your brand and niche. Together, you'll explore the importance of congruence, confidence, and consistency when it comes to building your business. She's got you covered from everything to the pre-enrollment call to turning those “nos” into coachable moments. In this set of videos, you'll learn how to:

- Identify the myths, limiting beliefs, and stories holding you back from selling.
